

Recycling at work and home

You and your employer can help us save lives at the same time as saving our planet! Whether you can collect old mobile phones or used printer cartridges this is an easy to manage way to support our work.

Mobile phone recycling

An estimated 15 million mobile phone handsets are discarded in the UK every year and only 5% of them are recycled. Imagine therefore how many unwanted mobile phones and chargers your colleagues; friends and family have lying around at home in the office.

You can help dispose of them in an environmentally friendly way and help The Anthony Nolan Trust.

For every handset – no matter how old or how battered – you can collect and send to The Anthony Nolan Trust we will receive a donation. For newer models in good condition we can receive up to £70.

Printer cartridges

Recycling your used printer cartridges is another simple way to raise vital funds for Anthony Nolan.

Offices in particular often use printer cartridges on a regular basis, rather than throw them away you could simply pop them in a freepost envelope and help us !

For every cartridge you send in, The Anthony Nolan Trust receives a donation.

How do I start?

Taking part in either of the schemes mentioned above will cost you absolutely nothing, all materials and postage are entirely free.
